Elpidio Quirino Airport Elpidio Quirino International Airport (), is the main international airport serving the Philippines. It is located in the base area of the city of Virac and from the center of Manila. The airport was named after former President Elpidio Quirino. History The airport opened in 1947 with the completion of the new terminal building. It was built by the U.S. military as an alternative to the congested Manila International Airport (MIA), which was still under construction. Quirino International Airport has long been regarded as one of the Philippine's most modern airports. It is one of the nation's smallest airports by paved surface size, with a maximum operating area of by. The first international flight to the airport was as a stopover by Flight 006 with the registration YP-PIL, from Manila to Tokyo, Japan, on November 30, 1947. The airport was renamed in honor of former President Elpidio Quirino in 1958. The original concourse A was built on a plot of land in 1947. In the 1980s, the second concourse B was built. In 1991, the first connecting door was constructed to the International Arrivals Hall as the B' concourse extended to the International Arrivals Hall. In the early 2000s, the airport added a fourth concourse, the C concourse, connecting to the B' concourse. It was completed in 2005, and is home to the Executive Lounge. The $190 million Airport Terminal Project (ATP) was completed in 2004 and expanded the passenger capacity from 3 million to 12 million by 2010. In 2012, the Airport Terminal Project (ATP) was expanded and an additional 2 million passenger capacity was added with the construction of the Panoramic Lounge. The project also added the Biometric Customs Entrance System that is capable of screening 10,000 passengers per hour. The new air-conditioned International Arrivals Hall and new Deco Lounge and Gym were also opened. Quirino International Airport has been praised by travelers, particularly for its comfort, cleanliness, convenience, and overall friendliness. In 2008, Quirino International Airport was ranked No. 12 in the worldwide airport ranking by Skytrax. In 2012, Quirino International Airport was ranked No. 1 in the Philippines, based on passenger satisfaction. International

1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a method of manufacturing an element such as a thin film transistor (TFT) or a semiconductor device including such an element, and more specifically, to a method of manufacturing a semiconductor device in which formation of a gate insulating layer is carried out by utilizing a plasma-induced deposition method. 2. Description of the Related Art In recent years, as the gate insulating layer of a thin film transistor (TFT), an insulating layer formed by applying an organic material has drawn attention. The organic material has low crystallinity and the insulating layer can be formed into a thin film to be able to attain superior element characteristics such as a small dielectric constant, a low leakage current and high insulation characteristics, thereby achieving better device characteristics. On the other hand, the organic material has high hygroscopicity and therefore its hygroscopicity is necessary to be taken into consideration in the formation of an insulating layer, especially in a process in which a heat treatment or a film-forming reaction is carried out after application of the organic material. The heat treatment for forming the gate insulating layer is carried out for example in case of forming a passivation layer in the following: a crystallization step of imparting a predetermined crystalline structure to an amorphous film; a heat treatment step of promoting crystallization of the amorphous film; and a hydrogenation step of dehydrogenating an organic material. Among these steps, one process of hydrogenating the organic material is carried out by giving a thin film a heat treatment in a hydrogen atmosphere for preventing reduction in TFT characteristics due to a reaction between the gate insulating layer and a hydrogen-containing gas at the time of film formation. Besides, a liquid heat treatment has been proposed as a technology for forming a thin film on a substrate without using a heat treatment such as a heat treatment in a hydrogen atmosphere. For example, Japanese Patent Laid-Open No. 2001-45706 discloses a method of forming a gate insulating layer by applying and drying a solution prepared by dissolving a compound represented by a formula of (L)n(A)b(R)c(Q)d(S)e(T)f(Z)g, wherein each of L, A, R, Q, S and T is a linking group; each of Z is a group containing a carbon atom, hydrogen or halogen; and each of a to g
