• Enables you to create responsive HTML newsletters that can adapt to any type of device • Comes with all you need to start creating newsletters • Works with all top mail clients and devices • Available in English, Spanish, French, German, Dutch and Italian Responsive Email Designer Free Download Review: The idea is to provide a tool that enables email designers to create email templates that are both stylish and responsive to a wide range of mobile devices. The tool comes in three editions (standard, premium and advanced), with each one featuring slightly different options. The tool was designed with fashion and photography in mind, but it is very versatile and I believe it can benefit many people and companies. Its interface and features are well-ordered and easy to use. Here is my opinion: The tool works well but with a little bit of tweaking, it could be more user-friendly. • The ultimate example of "progressive enhancement": the premium version uses the standard version of the application but if a viewer does not support the "Responsive Email Designer" tag, it will fallback to the plain email design; the advanced version uses the standard version of the application plus a dark background which is not supported by the viewer, so it falls back to the basic version of the application. • The fully responsive feature is a great innovation. The design is adjusted automatically depending on the used devices. • The user cannot choose to see sidebars or column. It is a limitation that should be removed in the future versions. • The "Custom Layout" view is very smart and versatile but it is very limited when compared with other third-party tools. • The drag and drop feature is very intuitive and useful but it can be improved with a good labeling system. • These are the few of the features that were missing in the tool and I would recommend the developer to add all of them in a future update. I have a problem to send an e-mail, because my client asks for the desktop version. It is not the same as in the web application: the boxes and... don't change how they are and how they look. It does not change, no matter what I do. This is what I want to do: If you have this problem, you should test at the tutorial on the website. But I have found that if you set up the body of the email a little bit like this... Add 09e8f5149f
