Q: preg_replace twice within a foreach first off all my second question. my $1st question was posted here: PHP preg_replace with '\s' within '\s'
I'm trying to replace double spaces with an empty space using preg_replace twice within a foreach, but it's not working as I had expected it to work.

The '\s' part is supposed to search within all the words that are being looped over in the foreach foreach ($rows as $row) { $row = preg_replace(":{2,}", "", $row); $row = preg_replace(":{2,}", "", $row); } This is just an example and not the actual output, but you get the point. Why isn't that working? A: Basically, what you are doing is this: $pattern = '/{2,}/'; $replacements = ""; echo preg_replace($pattern, $replacements, 'hello world');

This outputs the following message: hello world Replace the pattern and the replacements and you get the following: echo preg_replace('/{2,}/', 'hello world'); And this outputs: hello world Change the pattern and replacements to: $pattern = '{2,}'; $replacements = ""; And your output will be: hello world I'm a bit unclear as to why you're using preg_replace twice and why you are searching for :{2,} in all the text...
