..... so how do i get into it? please help me the new stuff is freaking me out. A: First of all you have to import the Importer class. Then you have to pass it File -> Import... -> Media -> Import Plugin -> Python -> Select Importer and choose the XML/HTML Importer. And then it should work fine. For more complete introduction you can have a look into the X-Cart official documentation. Q: Download to folder shortcut I'm trying to create simple shortcut to download file with url to a chosen folder. For example, I have a Google Docs file on url And I want the files to be saved by my browser without changing default browser for downloading files. I can achieve this with right click -> Save File As but I want to change the default behavior to download like any normal files. I could figure out how to set icons to be downloaded in browser. However, browser starts downloading it right after creation which I want to avoid. A: You can achieve this by just adding a webpage to you bookmarks list. Create a new plain HTML file with a link to the PDF and convert it to text file (anything like "gobby") to simplify the conversion. Example: Download PDF
Save and add it

STORY EDITIONS There are two types of gameplay. The first is the main story, which involves your goal is to reach the boss (you'll lose on first try). Now you can either try to beat the boss or beat the world records by running through the game as fast as you can. The second is a special standalone mode where you can beat the entire game as hard as you want, regardless of the speed record. The game asks for a high score in every level and saves that data so that you can view your high score and compare it to other players. The game remembers your current leaderboard ranking and displays that on the Main Menu screen, too. Gameplay Flow: The game starts with a tutorial that takes you through the controls. The controls are a cross between Pixel Maniacs, The Legend of Zelda, and Castlevania. The game has a world map that you can travel from level to level. The world map is divided into different maps that each have a different style level to it. Levels are randomly generated, but there are hints and notes that can allow you to solve puzzles. You're also able to double jump and bomb jump around the level. There are bosses that only appear in the main story, but they are usually fairly easy to defeat since the harder ones are unlocked. You can use bombs to break through walls. You can use a hammer to break blocks or destroy switches. You also have to break pots to gain extra lives and points. There are hundreds of different blocks, and you have to navigate through the levels to find them. The goal in each level is to defeat an enemy that will try to kill you. If the enemy successfully kills you, you lose a life. You can earn extra points by finding special blocks or collectible items. Points are stored in your pistol and the best way to collect them is to defeat enemies. Use the pistol to throw bombs and watch them detonate on enemies and blocks. Enemies and blocks can be killed or smashed into dust, which can be used to make switches turn on and trap a lizard. When you have sufficiently collected items, you can use them to increase your score. Some items cause you to gain extra points, while others deplete your number of points. You can also find coins in the level. If you don't collect all of the coins in a level, it is lost. You can use the coins to purchase items in a shop. Each shop has a set of items that are available for purchase. The items

, Richard Muir, was named one of Birmingham's Most Inspiring People New Lead Director for Martin Place and Shoe Gallery Simon Taylor marks another great milestone as Shoe Gallery becomes Salon West Midlands Interior Designer and Advisor to Great British Chefs, Helen Clements, named Birmingham's Most Inspiring Woman During the past 20 years, the Birmingham Business Agenda has expanded to become the most influential regional business magazine. Editorial Director, Stewart Morris, and Head of Marketing, Dr. Mark Bailey, have created a business magazine that is unique in content, insight and depth. In January we celebrated the start of our 20th birthday, and clearly the creative and community team have made an impact on the way the region's business leaders engage and articulate to their wider marketplace. Our team, and those around us in the business world, are dedicated to ensuring that industry leaders, communications professionals and the general public share what they know, so that everyone can, for example, make a better choice. It's a challenging area to balance the integrity required in producing news, commentary and analysis, with the need to make the best information available to the widest audience. One of the most rewarding aspects of the job is the positive reaction we get from both those we are writing for, and those we are writing about. It's wonderful to receive calls and e-mails from people who tell us how they've learnt something from reading an article, or to credit Birmingham Business Agenda as being central to their decision-making. There are examples where the magazine has provided such important support to families who may have had a difficult time surviving in deprived neighbourhoods, or to young people who have been encouraged to excel in careers far exceeding their expectations. Building relationships over time is central to our profile and delivery. Educating and influencing the mass-market is perhaps the most challenging, and rewarding, function of a regional business magazine. Making a difference is never-ending, but our job is to press the right buttons for a myriad of everyday people.
