It would ban the construction of a new birth control implant that was approved last year by the US Food and Drug Administration and is currently under review by the Department of Health and Human Services. Currently, a non-hormonal implant is approved to be used in men as a way to prevent pregnancy. It works by releasing a small amount of copper into the uterus. A new implant, called the ReViEW, is designed to dissolve after 3 or 4 years and is under review by HHS. The new bill, introduced by Rep. Joe Pitts (R-PA), would also ban the manufacture of the existing implant by the end of 2017 and would make the existing implant illegal to purchase.

Kevin McCarthy (politician)
Kevin Matthew McCarthy (born July 19, 1953) is an American politician. He is the current Minority Leader of the United States House of Representatives. He has represented the 23rd congressional district of California since 2013. Early life, education, and family McCarthy is a fourth-generation Californian. His family has resided in Fairfield, California since 1883. He is the brother of Rep. Mike McCarty, who currently represents California's 17th congressional district. McCarthy graduated in 1973 from American River College in Sacramento, California, and earned a bachelor's degree in communications, with a minor in computer science, from the University of California, San Diego in 1977. Career McCarthy began his political career as a one-term Assemblyman (1979–1980) who was elected as a Democrat. He is currently a member of the Republican Party. McCarthy was elected in 2012 to the U.S. House of Representatives. He represented California's 23rd congressional district and was first elected to Congress in 2012. His district includes the city of Fairfield, as well as West Hills, portions of the unincorporated community of San Jose and other unincorporated areas in the northern San Mateo County. Before being elected to Congress, McCarthy was an emergency medical technician and paramed 1cdb36666d
