It is endemic to Greece. This species lives in a variety of habitats, mainly within its native range, but also outside it. The habitat is dry karst country. References Category:Frogs of Europe mavortium Category:Amphibians described in 1975Q: How do I get the signal list of an rspec test to run once in a given Rspec session? I have a spec/controller/some_actions_spec.rb file which contains a series of signal example tests that run when you run the rspec spec file. I'm trying to also get them to run once when i run the spec folder. The issue I'm having is that after the first run of the spec folder the signals example calls run just when the test is done, and never again. I'm wondering if there's any way to make them run whenever i run the spec folder, or if there's a better way to write my signals examples.

spec/controller/some_actions_spec.rb describe 'some actions' do before :each do lambda {load_fixture_data} TestSample.reset_database end describe "GET :index" do before :each do #some signals get :index, :method => :patch #here is where i want the signals to run tools in office like word, excel etc.Q: how to define a variable according to available space i have an application where a variable gets its value from the available space on the whole screen. i want it to work like that: when i run the application then, it should change the size of the variable. i can't use x or y, because it won't take both of them into account. A: I think it's something like this: private float size = 0; private void Form1_SizeChanged(object sender, EventArgs e) { size = ClientSize.Width; } private void

Form1_Paint(object sender, PaintEventArgs e) { //
