I am creating a live version using following repo. I cannot make tile files for some worlds available publicly. If someone find the world (or otherwise) by given world names here, and would like to create an issue report, please do so (on github). (A: Please note that everything there in the link above has been archived. The on-line is now dead. The link you are trying to use to host the tile. Update 5/16/13: Clash of Clans developer Supercell has delivered a big hint as to what it'll be revealing at GDC next month. The company will be unveiling its free-to-play game lineup at the event, which kicks off on Friday and runs through Monday. One of the games, Supercell confirms, will be a full version of the hugely popular Honey, I Shrunk the Kids update. Given that the tower was an aspect of the game, its absence was already somewhat felt, and this confirms it'll be the changelog. The arena is returning, and reprising its role as a portal to the Master's Den. Clash of Clans arena runs for four weeks before disappearing for good. It will remain a lasting reminder of what could have been. — Supsy (@superspicy) May 8, 2013 Update 4/

Typing Fingers is a fun and easy-to-learn game that makes learning typing easier and more effective. It uses a fully brain-based teaching method. With SYMMETRIC LEARNING this app proves to be a super learning tool which could work for everybody, even children, without a problem. The bright and innovative use of the latest technology and modern design will become a great asset for typing teachers and their students. Why choose Typing Fingers over the standard typing games?

Typing games with a standard QWERTY keyboard layout are good enough for everybody if typing is the only goal. What makes this typing game special is that it makes learning how to type more effective by combining all of the currently available learning methods into one: • Typing games in a more effective way. The "Do it yourself" approach is based on brain analysis and computer vision. This makes TYPING FINGERS DIPLOMA really memorable. • The "prefabricated" brain-based learning mechanism is based on a proven principle of how the brain learns and processes information. • The "tutor" prompts the student to make mistakes and to learn how to correct them. • The "scary" messages in life actually make you improve your typing skills. • The "great background music" calms you down and makes you ready for learning. • The SYMMETRIC learning approach is based on a proven principle of how the brain learns and processes information. • The "Dennis" character helps you to learn the correct motion and hand position. The "Dennis" character is a dedicated tutor who guides you from the beginning to the end and gets you ready for learning a new skill. • The designer's commitment to make the app affordable is reflected in the price. Game Features: Great fun and interactive environment with lovely background music and the PCS-XIX Soundtrack. Play with other users and keep your level up with the special power-ups. 32 levels with highly intensive exercises for learning to type. Game "Spirit of Midnight" Features: Game "Spirit of Midnight" Screenshots: Spirit of Midnight - NEWS: Updated the game with the Forest map and also some minor fixes. First of all, thank you very much to all of you who have supported the project. AND NUTSHELL, the currently most downloaded app in the GOG store is the first game to reach 100,000 ratings! The sequel to this was a success, but I see a lot of complaints from some of the users who played the game. This time I went out of my comfort zone and made a completely different and stranger experience. I'm not saying that I'm finished with the series, but the title says it all. NOTE: This is a different game, and not the sequel to Nutshell! Thanks again, Greetings, I'm a veteran in the video game industry, with more than 30 years of experience. I have lots of experience in both programming and game design, and in that time I have created more than 25 games for the PC (and several games for different platforms too). I've also worked for many years as a concept artist, and worked on illustrations for books, magazines, posters, websites, and other projects. I studied Computer Science at the University of Amsterdam in Holland, and after getting my degree I moved to the United States to pursue game design. The past 17 years have been in the game industry. I have worked for Sony, Microsoft, Take2, Namco, Bethesda, Interplay, Parallax Software and many other small game companies. I have developed a variety of games including platformers, RPGs, space combat games, mech games, puzzle games, and so on. I'm currently developing my own game studio, De Razzi Productions. We are a small indie studio located in the West Coast of the United States. For the past eight years we've been creating games for consoles, phones and tablets. You can look me up on LinkedIn if you want. I'm also active on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram. My goals for this game: 1. Make something new and different. Something that you won't find on any other game website. 2. Something that's actually fun to play. 3. Music that makes you feel the game. 4. Graphics that make you feel like you're seeing a movie in a book.

What's new in Star Zeal 4x:

On Tuesday May 28th 1916, in Dublin's Temple Bar, over 200 strikers and anarchists clashed with police for control of a rent strike, a building workers' strike and a general strike. The battle took place in a pro-republican triangle of streets in Dublin: Moore Street in the north-east, Grafton Street in the south-east and Mary Street in the north-west. On the immediate prelude to the struggle, in the run-up to Tuesday 28th, May 1916, labour groups in Ireland had been demanding wages increases. In protest, on May 10th the employers declared a 'semi-general' strike. However, there was growing dissatisfaction among workers in Dublin as they themselves were being forced to participate in strikes by their employers; by May 8th, the Dublin and Midland Clothing Workers' and Tailor Workers' Union demanded that each job held should be recognised as a separate case - thus creating a conflict with the employers. On Sunday May 19th, more than 100 casual labourers in Dublin's docks walked off the job, and on Monday, May 20th several hundred dockers walked off their jobs. At this point the 'Dublin Strike Committee' [composed of some of Dublin's dockers, a laundry maids' union and several other unions], (a committee created by the Dublin Trades Council to advance the C.I.O. interests) sought a meeting with employers, to have an agreement on increased wages. It was arranged that the committee would meet with employers at 10am in the Post Office, Moore Street, the City's main post office and telephone exchange. The employers, however, refused to meet the union committee; notwithstanding, dozens of men, led by John MacCurtain, and the people leading the various dock strike committees, also attended the Post Office. At noon the crowd, who had been arriving since 8am, became angry and strikers started marching from the Post Office to the Post Office Chambers on Moore Street. With scores of policemen on hand to try and prevent any further demonstration from occurring, Moore Street was cordoned off. Then, armed with rocks and crowbars, and cheering the flags of freedom which they carried, the strikers streamed onto the road, and surged towards the Post Office. The crowd dragged two lampposts across the road, pinning down
