It is known that catalysts based on transition metals of group IV of the Periodic Table, for example, titanium tetrachloride, are capable of forming olefin polymers, for example, polyethylene, or copolymers of ethylene with.alpha.-olefins. It is also known that catalysts based on a titanium compound on a solid support, for example, silica gel impregnated with titanium tetrachloride, are capable of forming olefin polymers or copolymers of ethylene with.alpha.-olefins, in particular, with propylene. It has now been found that these two catalytic systems can be combined to form a catalyst capable of forming olefin polymers or copolymers of ethylene with.alpha.-olefins, in particular, with propylene, according to a simple process.Q: Linq to SQL - How to store a list of objects and the 'key' attribute in a table I'm running into a problem creating a table that is a list of items. "She looked so beautiful that I was speechless," said Nadia Maldonado, the girl's grandmother. The separated girl and her family were reunited Saturday morning during a news conference at the New York Federal Courthouse in Central Islip, N.Y. I told her to wake up, I told her to get up," said the other sister, who attended the reunion but didn't want to give her last name. "I said, 'You were gone.' "She didn't even know who I was," she said. They were separated at the border on June 12 after their mother, 39-year-old Nery Yuliana Hernandez-Delacruz, and her 7-year-old daughter crossed the border together. The mother was denied entry to the U.S. despite following immigration laws to be reunited with her daughter, who was born in the United States and had lived here the entire time of her life. "You can ask whatever you want to ask me, and I will tell you the truth," Hernandez told the news conference. "I would do it all over again. I would do it in a heartbeat." The family was separated for months, despite a judge's ruling ordering their reunification. On June 19, the girl was taken into federal custody and since then has been in the custody of
