Courtesy: AP Images TWO Virginia Democrats are facing federal charges after the FBI warned them their personal and potentially embarrassing information had been compromised. Federal prosecutors in Washington allege that Jefferson Beauregard Sessions III, who was nominated as US Attorney General by Donald Trump for a position that oversees federal law enforcement agencies, failed to disclose two loans he received from an investment bank during his appointment hearing in the Senate Judiciary Committee. Advertisement Both Democrats are running against the Republican incumbent in this year's Senate elections, including Mr Sessions's former staffer, Corey Stewart. The Associated Press reported that a warrant was issued for the arrest of Hunter Letson for lying to the FBI and bank fraud. He is also accused of money laundering, identity theft and illegal banking practices. Donald Trump with then-US attorney general nominee Jeff Sessions.
