Offset addressed all the fan frustrations at Sunday's court-side showdown with Golden State... but admitted he didn't have all the answers. We've got the full story right here... but the No. 3 member of Migos says he gets it. He agrees that fans have a right to express themselves... but says when they go out of hand and lose their humanity, you need to do something. "A lot of people have talked about staying in the arena or watching the game, which we've done," Offset tells TMZ Sports. "And you know we don't disrespect nobody... but when it turns into this, we don't want to see nobody get hurt, you know what I'm saying. That's what I'm learning as I go." Offset says it was about having fun... but understands that things got out of hand. "Some people lost their humanity and their mind," he says. "And I don't think they did that on purpose. I think they were just out there excited and having fun and then it turned into, like, a mob, which is terrible, man." If that's what was going through their minds, they made the right call... we hope. The whole thing started when the Warriors' Draymond Green started

If you've already purchased Diablo III, Steam
Rebel Wings is a free update from the Diablo III: Reaper of Souls expansion. You will find the purchase option in your Steam library. As part of your ongoing support of Rebel Wings, the base game and expansion will be discounted on Steam November 17, 2016. This discount applies to both the Steam version and App Store version, using the code REBELKEYWORDS.
Of course, if you already have Diablo III and the Reaper of Souls expansion, you're already part of a larger community of gamers and can continue to enjoy the experience. But if you can't wait until next week, here's a quick comparison of all the game content present in Diablo III...which includes all Reaper of Souls content.
