With its seventh album KIMIU (sang into a tape recorder), the Finnish band PHOTOKRITHIKA marks a particular change in their work: the band is driven by a desire for a variety and integrity in the music, and by a global approach. That the album shows a greater maturity than their previous album and the new EP in its instrumental aspects as well as when it comes to composition and instrumentation, is also confirmed. The title KIMIU is an artificial name for a five-piece, consisting of singer Emil Kangasniemi, bass player Kimmo Kangasniemi, guitarists/harmonica players Juho Haapasalo and Joonas Huovinen and drummer Sami Tenhura. The name "KimiU" is a portmanteau of "I share". In the work PHOTOKRITHIKA, they try to show their connection with the world and global perspective as well as the positive spirit which can be found in anything. Their live experience has proven that they are perfectly prepared to take part in improvisation, either as a four-piece band or a more intimate trio.
