The chemopreventive agent dexamethasone (5 mg/kg/day) administered orally for 14 weeks to female Swiss Webster mice suppressed the growth of the mammary glands but failed to modify the development of connective tissue lesions in the uteri of mice. On the other hand, the chemopreventive agents, epigallocatechin gallate (EGCG), epicatechin gallate (ECG) and EGC-gallic acid (EGCG-GA), at a daily dose of 50 mg/kg given orally for 14 weeks, increased the incidence of proliferative lesions of the uteri in mice induced by administration of the synthetic steroid, 11-deoxycorticosterone acetate (DOCA), for 7 weeks. Although EGCG, ECG and EGCG-GA decreased the growth of the mammary glands, the treatment with these agents had no influence on the development of the 11-deoxycorticosterone-induced lesions in the uteri. EGCG had no suppressive effects on the development of the ovarian tumors and uterine leiomyomas in mice. The lesions induced in the connective tissue of the uterus by administration of DOCA and proliferation of the connective tissue cells of the endometrium and myometrium of the uteri in both the mammary-gland-growth-inhibited and the lesion-preventive groups were similarly stained with rat and mouse monoclonal antibodies against the alpha and beta chain of type I collagen, which are markers for collagenous tissue, and the mouse monoclonal antibody against the mouse mammary epithelium growth factor, beta-casein. These findings indicate that EGCG is effective in reducing the development of both uterine and ovarian tumors in rodents and may exert its effect by inhibition of the growth of connective tissue cells in a variety of tissues.Q:

Â .Q: What's the best way to find the index of an object in an array? I want to return the index of an object. I'm iterating through the array with Array.forEach(), so I want to keep the iteration order as it's in the array. But the issue is, I don't know the length of the object in the array, so I can't just search for the object in the indexes of the array. So, what's the best way to find the index of an object in an array? A: If you want to create a constant-time indexOf(), try to use reduce(): let arr = ['a','b','c','d','e','f'], index = arr.reduce((i, e) => { return i === -1 || e === arr[i]? i : null; }, -1); console.log(index); // 0 console.log(arr.indexOf('a')); // 2 arr.indexOf() searches the array for the item, stops searching when it's found. arr.reduce() keeps a running variable/counter i which is the value of the index of the first item not yet seen. Since the counter is a value that holds a number, we don't need to check if it's -1. In case, the index in the array doesn't exist, the result will be the index of -1. If you want to search for a specific object, you don't need to use reduce() and instead use findIndex(): let arr = ['a','b','c','d','e','f']
