To describe the mortality trends of maternal deaths in France from 1974 to 2002. Hospitalization data of the French National Health Service for every diagnosis-related group (DRG) including maternal deaths for deliveries occurring in maternity hospitals in France during the period 1974-2002 were analysed. The monthly average number of maternal deaths as well as the number of DRGs and livebirths were determined for each year of the studied period. We analysed the percentage of maternal deaths in relation to the total number of DRGs, in each geographical area, and according to
