Easy to perform a new calculation when some data has changed, to see how it affects the result. FlowCalc32 CE supports all printers... except maybe PostScript printers. This is because Windows 7 does not have the appropriate drivers. If the printer supports PostScript, it must be supported in Windows 7. If the printer does not have PostScript support, it must be included in the list of printers that are not in use, or have a special setting to work in Windows 7 - there is an option for this in the " Properties": Printer Properties. If you select No, the printer will not work on Windows 7. dd2bc28256
