the second transformation is also known as the ultimate transformation. it is a transformation that is exclusive to saiyans. this transformation is a part of the ancient dragon balls of the planet vegeta (in the anime, this part is called the "unawakened" transformation); due to the fact that the planet vegeta is a planet that is home to all races (including the super saiyans) and the awakening of the transformation is exclusive to only the super saiyans. the transformation is usually associated with the character of vegeta; however, it is shown that other saiyans can also transform into super saiyans, such as broly and goku. when the transformation occurs, the saiyans body becomes infused with energy and he becomes much larger and stronger than normal; the transformation is unique in that the saiyans body begins to glow intensely red as the transformation is taking place. however, the strength and size that the transformation grants the saiyans is only temporary, and once the transformation is completed, the saiyans muscles begin to wither away. the transformation is also exclusive to the saiyans race; however, there is an exception in the anime, where krillin was capable of transforming into a super saiyans for a short amount of time. in dragon ball z: broly - second coming , broly's dragon ball was stolen by krillin and shortly after, krillin transformed into a super saiyans, with the aid of the stolen dragon ball, even though he did not possess the power to awaken the transformation himself. a super saiyans is capable of transforming once per day, and his power will be boosted by the fruits of the transformations used. a super saiyans may use up to two transformations per day, provided they are not both "awakened".
