But something weird happened. The last time she felt so happy was the day she had the recheck of her baby. Well, just the day before that she had her first ultrasound. And just like every other ultrasound, she found out that their child is a boy. "It's a boy!": That day she received the news, she was walking and texting on her phone when she found out that the baby's name was Luis. She was surprised at first, and she instantly thought of her friends. "Luis? Is that not the name of some high school or college friend of yours?", she wondered. Well, no. It was her high school boyfriend. Yes, he was in the same high school as her. For a while, they were a couple. But then she left him when he started partying. All this was more than 10 years ago. And now her phone is flooded with texts and calls from his friends, and she starts feeling bad. He is the type of person who would always call her, and tell her that he misses her. The truth is that she has not talked to him for more than 5 years. "Funny, he is the type of person who wouldn't call anyone after he broke up with them", she thought. As 2edc1e01e8
