AVZ Antiviral Toolkit 5.0 Description: Download “AVZ Antiviral Toolkit” to protect your computer against various threats. It’s capable of detecting adware, viruses, spyware, dialers or pomware, as well as files that might pose a risk to your system and heuristics. It was designed to run a complete system diagnostic that can offer additional information to the Kaspersky Lab technical support. In other words, if you go to Kaspersky’s tech support, they might ask you to generate a report based on AVZ’s analysis. Comprehensive security solution to keep your PC safe AVZ Antiviral Toolkit can perform an in-depth analysis of your system, covering not only key areas, but much more. The scan starts with the running processes, continues with services, drivers and autoruns, registry entries, opened ports, installed Internet Explorer extensions, scheduled jobs, protocols, handlers, control panel applets and, finally, a diagnostic of your network traffic. During the scan, it creates a quarantine section and automatically moves files that it considers to be suspicious and dangerous to it. You can browse the quarantine area but it is advisable that you do not restore files inside it, as they might harm your computer. Features a plethora of system control tools But it’s not all about the malware scanner, although a scan alone could tell you if there is something wrong with your PC. AVZ Antiviral Toolkit has to offer much more than that. It features integrated process, services and drivers managers to give you much more control over your computer. It also comes with registry, cookies and file search tools. Furthermore, there is a dedicated function for

The link is A: I can't comment on the legitimacy of the antivirus tool you're trying to use, but if you want to do it manually, you'll need to scan your whole disk. The KB article shows you how to use the script to find all the files with the same extension in a folder. You'll also need to open the scan. Start -> Run -> regedit Open the HKLM\Software\Policies\Microsoft\Windows\Explorer\UserState* subkey You'll see a collection of registry keys that, if present, start with the string C:\Users\%USERNAME%\AppData\Local\Temp. If you open those keys, you'll find that, at the bottom of the ones for the extension that you're scanning for, you'll find an element called "ScanFile". If you open that, you'll get a key called "File" that you can use to scan for the file. The full KB article.
