LabVIEW is currently the most popular graphical programming environment for engineers, thanks to its comprehensive features and ease of use.β-lactam induced acute kidney injury in patients without azotemia. β-lactam antimicrobial agents are the most frequently prescribed class of antimicrobials worldwide. The development of kidney injury is considered an infrequent complication, with only a few case reports published, of which ours is the first in the literature with good documentation of the time course of the event. There is minimal information about the incidence of β-lactam induced nephrotoxicity, but the possible etiology and consequences are known. The following paper reports the findings of a case study of acute kidney injury following treatment with penicillin and metronidazole in a patient without a history of chronic renal disease, hypertension or diabetes who had not been previously exposed to any nephrotoxic substances.This image was removed due to legal reasons. Earlier this week, the New York Times website published a story called "Deception At Florida Schools — Is It All A Matter Of Money?" In the wake of a several high-profile instances of
