hate to be so open about it, but what is it going to do for them? Turns out, a lot. In the last 10 years, TV ratings and history nerds have seen an out-of-this-world revolution in the way we tell stories. For the first time, we have the tools to create a story and re-enact it, in exacting detail. In other words, we can tell a story twice, simply by doing it. There was once an idea that this was a luxury, reserved for those who had millions in the bank. But this was a luxury that everyone could afford - at any time. How? What if we could curate the best remakes, re-enactments, and works of fiction in history, and send them to you? Well, there you have it. We are your history of TV channel. And we'
